

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to tell you how pleased I am that something is finally being done to help the plight of animals aboard flights. For too long too many animals have fallen victim to various problems associated with being in the baggage compartment. I am urging you to quickly finalize this rule to help countless animals from suffering. From what I understand, though, this rule only applies to pets of U.S. families. I am also requesting that the scope of the term 'animals' be broadened to include all animals, not just pets.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter.

Sincerely,

Peggy Schramm
